

Last month Emily Clear wanted to do something to give back to the city, bond with teammates, and continue to work on conditioning. She came up with the idea of running in the Panara Bread 5k/10k Run for Hunger. All donations go towards Care And Share. This organization was one of the leading food providers for families that lost everything in the Waldo Canyon Fires. She was able to get the rest of her family and a few other girls off her U15 Swoosh team to run it it as well (pictured left to right are Morgann Vails, Alicia Bruno, Emily Clear and Caroline Boatz). This is a great example of players stepping up to help their community. Thank you for representing Rush Pikes Peak in such a great way.
